MoTiV Final Conference

We are happy to invite you to take part in the MoTiV online Final Conference that will take place on 18 June 2020.

The objective of the event is to showcase the results of the MoTiV project, their relevance to policy makers, business and the academic community.

We will invite a large group of persons with a connection to and an interest in value of travel time research to discuss the outputs of the MoTiV project, the project's legacy to future work, the relevance of the project's outputs to better public policy/business outcomes and to contextualise the results of the project within their academic surroundings.

Save the date!
